

The Colorado Fatherhood Network (CFN) is a father-focused, statewide, systems level practitioner network for those supporting fathers and families at organizational, community, and systems levels.

The CFN provides an ongoing and open forum for education on best practices, information and resource sharing, peer-to-peer networking, and furthering policy and programming inclusive of fathers and families.

The Colorado Fatherhood Network seeks diverse, representative, cross-sector membership across Colorado.

Members can include:

Direct Service Providers • Advocates • Community Organizers • Healthcare Workers • Policymakers, Father and Family Support Program Directors and Managers • Researchers • Individual Interests • Fathers

What Can the CFN Offer?

State-wide peer-to-peer networking and learning

Data and evaluation support

Promotion of best practices and current trends in Fatherhood and Family support

Advocacy

Technical assistance for providers, programs, and organizations

Education and training resources

Communications through monthly E-newsletters, website, and social media

Quarterly CFN meetings

CFN's Key Priority Areas

Network building

Public awareness and communications

Father involvement in leadership and decision-making

Fatherhood programs

Data and evaluation

Policy and advocacy

Interested in learning more? Visit our website at <https://www.cofamilycenters.org/colorado-fatherhood-network/>